

Dr. Amos C. Fox is a Professor of Practice with the Future Security Initiative at Arizona State University. He teaches armed conflict, strategy, the future of war, and security studies. In addition, Amos serves as the Managing Editor for Small Wars Journal, and he hosts the Revolution in Military Affairs podcast. Amos has published more than one hundred articles on war, strategy, warfare, and military theory. His articles can be found in Foreign Policy, RUSI Journal, Comparative Strategy, and a wide range of other outlets. Amos is the author of Conflict Realism: Understanding the Causal Logic of War and Warfare (Howgate Publishing, 2024) and the co-editor of Multidomain Operations: The Pursuit of Battlefield Dominance in the 21st Century (Howgate Publishing, 2026). He is also the author of the forthcoming book Maneuver is Dead: Land Warfare in the 21st Century (coming in June 2026). Amos is also a retired US Army Lieutenant Colonel.